NOTICE OF PRIVACY PRACTICES YOUR INFORMATION. YOUR RIGHTS. OUR RESPONSIBILITIES.

This notice of privacy practices describes how medical information about you may be used and disclosed and how you can get access to this information. Please review it carefully.

Please know that this notice is a summary only, and that applicable law places requirements on us, and limiters/expanders on the issues discussed in this notice (including our uses/disclosures), that may not be obvious. For example, HIPAA's definitions of "marketing" and "sales" and "breach" and "healthcare operations", and the related restrictions, are technical, include exceptions, and do not apply to all situations you may personally consider to be within those definitions. So, for instance, if HIPAA allows, we may use/disclose your information for healthcare operations purposes that you may personally believe to be marketing or sales, without your authorization being necessary. This notice is not intended to be more restrictive than applicable law, unless explicitly noted.

Your Rights

With your health information, you have certain rights. This section generally explains your rights and some of our responsibilities to help you.

Get an electronic or paper copy of your medical record

- You can ask to see or get an electronic or paper copy of your medical record and other health information we have about you. Ask us how to do this.
- We will provide a copy or a summary of your health information, usually within 30 days of your request. We may charge a reasonable, cost-based fee.

Ask us to correct your medical record

- You can ask us to correct health information about you that you think is incorrect or incomplete. Ask us how to do this.

- We may say "no" to your request. We'll tell you why in writing within 60 days.

Request confidential communications

- You can ask us to contact you in a specific way (e.g., home or office phone) or send mail to a different address.
- We say "yes" to all reasonable requests.

Ask us to limit what we use or share

- You can ask us not to use or share certain health information for treatment, payment, or our operations. We do not have to agree to your request, and we may say "no" if it would affect your care.
- If you pay for a service or health care item out-of-pocket in full, you can ask us not to share that information for the purpose of payment or our operations with your health insurer. We will say "yes" unless a law requires/allows us to share that information.

Get a list of those with whom we've shared information

- You can ask for a list (accounting) of the times we've shared your health information for six years prior to the date you ask, who we shared with, and why.
- We will include all the disclosures except for those about treatment, payment, and healthcare operations, and certain other disclosures (such as any you asked us to make). We'll provide one accounting a year for free but will charge a reasonable, cost-based fee if you ask for another one within 12 months.

Get a copy of this privacy notice. You can ask for a paper copy of this notice at any time, even if you have agreed to receive the notice electronically. We will provide you with a paper copy promptly.

Choose someone to act for you

- If you have given someone medical power of attorney or if someone is your legal guardian, that person can exercise your rights and make choices about your health information.
- We will make sure the person has this authority and can act for you before we take any action.

File a complaint if you feel rights are violated

- You can complain if you feel we have violated your rights by contacting us using the information on page 1.

- You can file a complaint with the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office for Civil Rights.

In these cases, you have both the right and choice to tell us to:

- Share information with your family, close friends, or others involved in your care
- Share information in a disaster relief situation

If you cannot tell us your preference, for example, if you are unconscious, we may go ahead and share your information if we believe it is in your best interest. We may also share your information when needed to lessen a serious and imminent threat to health or safety.

In these cases, we never share your information unless you give us written permission:

- Marketing purposes

OFFICE POLICY AND PROCEDURES (OPP)

TREATMENT PHILOSOPHY: During the initial evaluation period, which can last for weeks, you and your therapist will clarify the nature of the problems for which you are seeking treatment. Your therapist will work with you to create a treatment plan to address your concerns. You can facilitate progress during therapy by maintaining motivation to change, complying with treatment recommendations, and communicating openly and honestly with your therapist. The length and frequency of sessions, as well as the duration of therapy, can vary significantly. Progress in therapy is an issue that can be discussed with your therapist at any time throughout the course of therapy.

Because success or satisfaction with treatment cannot be guaranteed, you are requested to inform your therapist if you do not feel satisfied with your progress. You and your therapist may then be able to work through the issues, modify treatment, or negotiate a new therapeutic contract. In some instances, this may involve your therapist making an appropriate referral or you or your therapist terminating therapy. You may choose to leave therapy at any time; however, leaving therapy is best accomplished in consultation with your therapist

WHAT TO EXPECT: There are benefits and risks in seeking individual, marital, or family therapy. Some of the potential benefits include, but are not limited to, developing your ability to handle or cope with life events and personal relationships and providing you with greater insight into your personal goals and values. In working to achieve these benefits, however, you may experience distressing thoughts and/or emotions. Risks of therapy include, but are not limited to, feelings or circumstances becoming worse before they get better; changes in your emotional state, such as feelings of depression or anxiety; the possibility of hallucinations or dissociations; changes in perception or behavior; and changes in occupational, social, or personal relationships. In short, treatment may be emotionally painful. You must tell your therapist about any changes in your thoughts or feelings.

EMERGENCIES: If you feel that you might harm yourself or others physically, call 911 immediately, or go to your nearest police department or emergency room.

CONFIDENTIALITY: In general, information communicated between you and your therapist during therapy is confidential and protected by the psychotherapist-patient privilege. Although it is the policy of this agency to obtain written authorizations from patients before disclosing any patient information, there are certain mandated and permitted exceptions to confidentiality and privilege that require or allow certain information to be disclosed without your permission. For instance,

1. Your therapist is required by law to report certain incidents to governmental authorities, including law enforcement, that cause your therapist to reasonably suspect that child, elder, or dependent adult abuse has occurred.

2. Your therapist is allowed by law to contact third parties, including law enforcement, if you are deemed by your therapist to be dangerous to yourself or to others.

To safeguard your right to privacy and your ability to assert the psychotherapist-patient privilege, you should not discuss your therapy with a third party unless such party is necessary to further your therapy (for example, discussing your therapy with a parent or guardian who is assisting you in the process).

For therapy to be successful with minors, they must trust their therapists to keep certain information confidential, even from their parents. California law allows psychotherapists to withhold information from parents if they believe that disclosing it would harm their patient physically or emotionally or would harm the integrity of the professional relationship. Consequently, your child’s therapist will likely not tell you everything that is occurring during therapy.

RECORDS: Your clinical file will consist of (a) legal forms such as this document, (b) a record of visits and payments, and (c) clinical progress notes. These progress notes will contain enough information about your treatment to justify its’ necessity, should such justification ever become an issue.

PROVIDERS: Counseling is provided by licensed clinical psychologists, licensed clinical social workers, and licensed marriage and family therapists. It is also provided by registered associate marriage and family therapists (also referred to as “associates” or “associates in training”), who are not yet licensed but who are in training to become licensed marriage and family therapists. Your therapist will clarify their licensure or registration status with you before beginning treatment. Associates in training are supervised weekly by licensed marriage and family therapists who have been licensed for at least two years and who take regular continuing education courses in supervision. If you have any further questions or concerns, contact your provider.

YOUR RIGHTS: Treatment is entirely voluntary, and you have the right to terminate treatment at any time. If for any reason your treatment has been ordered by a third party, you will be fully informed of this. In all cases, professional treatment never includes sexual contact with the treatment provider. We would ask that prior to terminating therapy you discuss any issues relating to the reason for your termination with your therapist and/or his or her supervisor.

ELECTRONIC COMMUNICATIONS POLICY

EMAIL COMMUNICATIONS: We use email communication and text messaging only with your permission and only for administrative purposes unless we have made another agreement. That means that email exchanges and text messages with our office should be limited to things like setting and changing appointments, billing matters, and other related issues. Please do not email us about clinical matters because email is not a secure way of contacting us or an efficient way of communicating complex information. If you need to discuss a clinical matter with your provider, please feel free to call him or her to discuss it on the phone or wait so you can discuss it during your therapy session. The telephone or face-to-face context simply is much more secure as a mode of communication.

TEXT MESSAGING: Because text messaging is a very unsecure and impersonal mode of communication, providers do not text message to nor do respond to text messages from anyone in treatment. So, please do not text message providers unless other arrangements have been made or you are using a texting application specifically recommended by your provider or SOULTENDERS, INC., a practice management company.

SOCIAL MEDIA: We do not communicate with, or contact, any of our clients through social media platforms like Twitter or Facebook. In addition, if we discover that we have accidentally established an online relationship with you, we will cancel that relationship. This is because these types of casual social contacts can create significant security risks for you.

CONSENT FOR TREATMENT/ACCEPTANCE OF POLICIES

You have the right to withdraw your consent for treatment at any time.

FEDERAL TRUTH IN LENDING DISCLOSURE STATEMENT FOR PROFESSIONAL SERVICES

SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, and all SoulTenders providers are committed to providing caring and professional mental health care to our clients. As part of the delivery of mental health services, we have established a financial policy that provides and clarifies payment policies and options for clients, as determined by the management of SoulTenders, Inc., a practice management company.

PROFESSIONAL FEES: The hourly fee is $_____. In addition to weekly appointments, this amount is charged for other professional services you may need. Other services include report writing, telephone conversations lasting longer than 15 minutes, attendance at meetings with other professionals you have authorized to attend on your behalf, preparation of records or treatment summaries, and the time spent performing any other service you may request of your provider and/or SoulTenders, Inc., a practice management company. In addition, if you become involved in legal proceedings that require your provider's participation, you are expected to pay for the provider's professional time even in cases where the provider is called to testify by another party. [Because of the difficulty of legal involvement, the charge is $_____ per hour for preparation and attendance at any legal proceeding.]

CANCELLATIONS/MISSED APPOINTMENTS: A scheduled appointment means that time is reserved only for you. A fee of $_____ is charged for missed appointments or cancellations with less than 24-hour notice. Frequent cancellations may result in termination of treatment; your compliance in keeping appointments and active participation in the treatment process are vital.

BILLING AND PAYMENTS: You are expected to pay for each session at the time it is held, unless you and your provider agree otherwise or unless you have insurance coverage which requires another arrangement. Payment schedules for other professional services are agreed to when they are requested.

If your account is not paid for more than 60 days and arrangements for payment have not been agreed upon, SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, has the option of using legal means to secure payment. This may involve hiring a collection agency or going through small claims court. [If such legal action is necessary, the costs are included in the claim.] In most collection situations, the only information SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, releases regarding patient treatment is the patient's name, that services were provided, and the amount due.

INSURANCE REIMBURSEMENT: For your provider to set realistic treatment goals and priorities, it is important that you evaluate the resources you have available to pay for your treatment. If you have a health insurance policy, it usually provides some coverage for mental health treatment.

Your provider and/or SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, may provide you with assistance (filling out forms, etc.) to help you receive the benefits of your insurance; however, you (not your insurance company) are personally responsible for full payment of all fees. Consequently, it is very important for you to understand exactly what mental health services your insurance policy covers and keep up to date with your insurance coverage and any changes made to your policy. It is your responsibility to inform your provider and/or SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, when changes to your mental health benefits occur.

You should carefully read any and all information provided by your insurance carrier that describes mental health services. If you have questions about your mental health coverage, call your insurance plan administrator directly. While Your provider and/or SOULTENDERS, Inc. a practice management company, can provide you with useful information based on our own experience and help you in understanding the information you receive from your insurance company. Depending on the situation at hand, and if it is deemed necessary and helpful to clear confusion, your provider and/or SOULTENDERS, Inc., a practice management company, may be willing to call the insurance company on your behalf. However, please keep in mind that our professional fees outlined in the section above may apply (i.e., any conversations we have with your insurance company are billed as a professional service after fifteen minutes).

As a service to you, your provider and/or SOULTENDERS, INC. a practice management company, submits bills to insurance companies and other third-party payers, but cannot guarantee payment, your benefits, or the amount covered, and is not responsible for the collection of such payments. In some cases, insurance companies and other third-party payers may determine that services are not reasonable or necessary or may determine that services are not covered. In such cases, the person responsible for payment of the account is responsible for payment in full for these services. Charges for services are based upon the usual and customary rates for the local service area. Clients are responsible for payment regardless of any insurance company's arbitrary determination of usual and customary rates.

Clients are responsible for payments at the time of services. The adult accompanying a minor (or guardian of the minor) is responsible for payment for the child at the time of service.

Payments, co-payments, and deductible amounts are due at the time of service. Balances remaining for more than one month assess a $25 late fee. Payment methods include check, cash, or the following charge cards: Visa or Mastercard. There is a $25 fee for returned item checks
